1997 HI-O-HI OBERLIN COLLEGE VOLUME 106

College of Arts & Sciences

Here we see what the professors do when they are not in their classrooms. Mr. Kelley works diligently at his computer. Ms. Kruks chats with a student. Mr. DiCenzo takes a meeting in his office. If you would like an office in Rice work really hard, spend years and tens of thousands of dollars, and then you can be one of two hundred people applying for one position.

Rice — Containing several Social Science and Humanity Departments. Now largely offices, it is still one of our nicer looking buildings. Yes it does look stupid since they (the highly confused administration) decided to tear off the top floor. Hint to the administration: keep the stately stone architecture. If you need to destroy something go dismantle Stevenson. (By the way, this is where my bike was stolen.)

Newton, Einstein, Copernicus, if you can name any other physicists then you belong in this building. The Wilbur and Orville Wright Laboratory of Physics is named for those two boys who were the pioneers of flight. If you would like to learn more about inventing new machines stop in and see a physicist. You too can be one of the few, the proud, the Oberlin Physics majors.

The season is Fall, the time questionable. What more do you want?

Yeah, we're cool. Making the journey from Kicking back and relaxing on a lovely afternoon. Typical scenes on any beautiful day in Oberlin.

Yes, you can even attempt to study in Wilder bowl, though your success rate may be low.

Bicycles are a common sight all over Oberlin. I too once had a bike but it was stolen. I liked my bike. I miss my bike. Have you seen my bike?

A regular sight in Wilder bowl are the vendors who sell everything from jewelry to clothes to tapestries. If you ever need anything just wait a week and the "store" will come to you!

four in this co-op!!! It is populated primarily by vegetarians and vegans and is infamous for its long policy discussions over issues of environmental awareness and the p.c.-ness of certain food types. This does not mean that its co-ops do not know how to have fun. Good snacking food and a large mural of Where The Wild Things Are have long been a distinguishing mark of Fairchild.

HARKNESS, conveniently located in the center of the campus, provides room and board for 64 students and board-only for up to an additional 45. As OSCA's largest housing co-op, it faces challenges of idealism and cooperation in its own unique way. Harkies can boast of a kitchen that is filled with friendly people and music nearly 24 hours a day and there is always plenty of food in the refrigerator. Remember: "Harkness is to Oberlin what Oberlin is to the rest of the world."

Co-ops - We Own It!?

You may or may not have heard this phrase before, but what does it mean? OSCA is a special case because although we do "own" our two off-campus housing co-ops, we "rent" the other eight. So how can we say that we own them? We own them because we determine ourselves how we live in them, what food we eat, when we eat it, how it is prepared, and all other facets of the organization. All co-op policies are determined democratically in meetings both at the all-OSCA level and at the co-op level. This means that each year we have to reinvent the wheel to some extent, but when all is done the community is a product of the collective ideas of its members. Many members past and present don't stop praising the co-ops' good food, reduced costs, and warm community; they go on to describe the co-op experience as being "a vital part of their education."

Work study and co-op work

Currently, to dine in a co-op costs $1950 a year ($1150 less than campus dining service). Living in a co-op double and dining in a co-op costs $4600 for the year ($1574 less than living in a campus double and dining in campus dining service). Living in a co-op single and dining in a co-op costs $4930 ($1596 less than living in a campus single and dining in campus dining service). The labor that members put into their co-op results in the savings.

 William Jefferson Clinton defeats Republican Bob Dole and Independent H. Ross Perot to become the 42nd president of the U.S. and the last president of the 20th century. Clinton is the first Democrat since Franklin Roosevelt to be reelected to a second term.

 A civil jury finds former football star O.J. Simpson liable for the June 12, 1994 wrongful deaths of his ex-wife, Nicole Brown Simpson, and her friend, Ronald Goldman. In a unanimous verdict, the jury awards $8.5 million in compensatory damages to Goldman's parents. The Brown and Goldman families are each awarded $12.5 million in punitive damages.

 Days of incessantly heavy rains in November undermine the roadbed of Oregon's Interstate 5, creating a 40-foot-deep sinkhole, into which two semitrailer trucks tumble.

 The Citadel, South Carolina's traditionally all-male military academy, admits four women, including Petra Loventinska (left) and Jeanie Montavlos. Montavlos and another female cadet later drop out, citing harassment and "sadistic" hazing.

 Topsail Beach, a town on an island off the coast of North Carolina, is one of many Eastern locations hit hard by Hurricane Bertha in July. Six powerful hurricanes, all with winds over 110 miles per hour, made 1996 a near-record year doing $3.5 billion in damage in the U.S.

A 9,300-year-old skeleton discovered in July near Richland, Washington is the oldest and most intact set of human bones ever discovered in North America. Research is suspended, however, as the tribes from the Native American grounds where it is found claim the skeleton as an ancestor and want the bones buried.

Trauma Seal, a new medical adhesive that is applied like a lip-balm stick, is in clinical trials at 10 hospitals and health care institutions nationwide. The biodegradable adhesive could eliminate stitches and return visits.

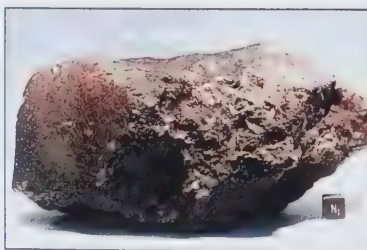

New York Police Department canines begin wearing three-pound, infrared cameras, scouting out potentially dangerous areas before police officers enter the scene. Handlers are developing bullet-proof vests for the dogs to wear.

A new category of animal is discovered in the form of bacteria that live on the lips of lobsters. Symbion pandora, which lives on food scraps from lobster lips, is called "the zoological highlight of the decade."

Videogame giant Nintendo releases its long-awaited Nintendo 64, a new hardware system that draws players into the game and moves three times faster than any existing system.

An expedition to raise the Titanic, the legendary "unsinkable" ocean liner that sank on its maiden voyage in 1912, from its North Atlantic grave more than two miles deep, ends in failure in August due to rough seas.

In August, scientists discover evidence of bacteria-like life on a meteorite found in 1984 and believed to be part of the crust of Mars 4.5 billion years ago. It is the first possible proof that life is not unique to Earth.

Steam and ash from Iceland's Laki volcano blast 83,000 feet in the air on October 8. Molten rock from the volcano's 5-mile-wide fissure melts through more than 2,000 feet of glacial ice, threatening the island with widespread flooding.

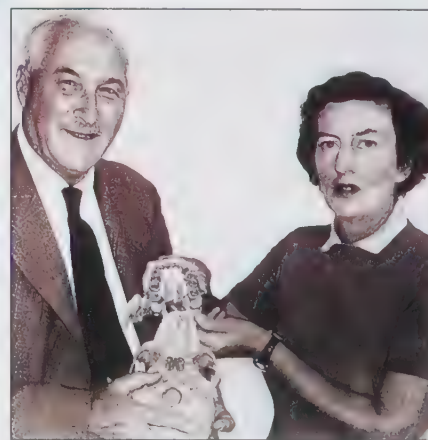

An "oxygen bar" in Toronto, Canada allows patrons to pay $16 to spend 20 minutes breathing pure oxygen. The owners of the O<sub>2</sub> Spa Bar claim the treatment is a healthy way to reinvigorate the body and offer fruit "flavors" to liven up the experience.

Smithsonian Institution

The Smithsonian Institution celebrates the 150th anniversary of its founding with a nationwide tour of prize exhibits, including this stovepipe hat worn by Abraham Lincoln.

Paleoanthropologist Mary Leakey, shown with husband Louis Leakey in a 1959 photograph, dies in December. Discoveries by the Leakeys throughout their careers are some of the most important in paleoanthropological history. Her greatest discovery was a trail of 3.7-million-year-old footprints, which proved that hominids walked upright far earlier than previously believed.
